Two Local Artists Share Filmmaking Insights at Brawley Career Day**

WHAT: Multi-award-winning international filmmaker Roy Dorantes and actor Anthony De La Cruz will join forces to inspire and educate attendees at Brawley High School Career Day. Both artists will share their personal journeys and professional experiences in the filmmaking industry.

Roy Dorantes, a former theatre actor and multimedia journalist, turned to filmmaking as a way to address pressing social issues. He will discuss his multi-award-winning film on domestic violence, “Not One More!”, and his personal journey as an independent filmmaker.

Dorantes said, “I’m always happy to share my filmmaking experiences with others hoping to encourage them to use their artistic skills to improve our world.”

Anthony De La Cruz, a proud native of Brawley and a talented actor with roots in music, will offer his unique perspective on the performing arts and the creative process.

“I want to take the opportunity to share my knowledge and experience with those interested, and especially with those who think it’s impossible to enter the acting profession if you’re from a small town in the desert,” De La Cruz said.

Together, Dorantes and De La Cruz aim to empower attendees with knowledge and inspiration drawn from their diverse artistic paths.
